DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1, 11, 16 and 21-22 are presented for examination.
2. Claims 2-10, 12-15, and 17-20 are cancelled without prejudice.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 11, and 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

4. Applicant argues that Kensey does not teach the unifying prefix being selected from the group consisting of a school name, a school name followed by a graduation year, an association name, a club name, a hobby and a sport. And also lack of motivation to modify Kensey to establishing unifying prefix with a school name, ... and a sport. In response to applicant's argument, examiner submits that since applicant's amendment by add more limitations into independent claims (see claims 1, 11 and 16), add newly claims (see claims 21 and 22) and by deleting claims (see claims 2-10, 12-15, and 17-20). Therefore, applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action (see rejection below).

5. Applicant argues that Kensey does not teach or suggest two or more unifying prefixes in a single directory. In response to applicant's argument, examiner asserts that Kensey does teach a directory includes at least two or more website domain names or addresses which includes unifying prefixes as shown in figure 2, paragraphs 0017-0022.

Claim Objections

Art Unit: 2155

6. Claims 11, 21 and 22 are objected to because of the following informalities:

7. Claim 11 recited "the group consisting of...". There is lack of antecedent basis for this limitation in this claim.

8. Claims 21 recited "the group consisting of...". There is insufficient antecedent basis for the limitation in this claim.

9. Claim 22 recited the limitation "the group establishing...". There is insufficient antecedent basis for the limitation in this claim.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

10. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

11. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kensey U.S. Pub. No. 2001/0037253.

12. As to claim 16, Kensey teaches the invention as claimed, including a unified system of organizing information posted on the Internet, comprising:

establishing and publicizing a directory, wherein the directory includes at least a first unifying prefix 1, a further unifying prefix 2 and n-1 further unifying prefixes, where n is any integer greater than 2, wherein at least the unifying prefix 1 appears in at least one Internet domain name via which posted content is accessible in a form beginning www."unifying prefix 1" and the "unifying prefix 2" appears in at least one Internet domain name via which posted content is accessible in a form beginning www. "unifying prefix 2" (abstract, figure 1, paragraphs 0017-0022).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC §103

13. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

14. Claims 1, 11, and 21-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Kensey U.S. Pub. No. 2001/0037253.

15. As to claim 1, Kensey teaches the invention as claimed, including a cooperating Internet system comprising:

a posted Internet website accessible via a first Internet domain name that begins with www. followed by a unifying prefix followed by a first topic phrase, wherein the unifying prefix is included in at least a second Internet domain name that begins with www. followed by the unifying prefix followed by a second topic phrase, wherein the posted content accessible via the first Internet domain name and via the second Internet domain name follow at least one unifying rule (abstract, figure 1, paragraphs 0017-0020).

Kensey does not explicitly teach the unifying prefix is selected from the group consisting of a school name, a school name followed by a graduation year, an association name, a club name, a hobby and a sport. However, Kensey teaches the unifying prefix could be used other suitable prefixes (paragraphs 0032-0033). Since the group consisting of school name, an association name... a sport is just a name to name for a particular school, department, organization in a domain/URL/website. It were conventionally employed to one of ordinary skill in the art can use any particular name to create a domain name by following domain name format/rule. Moreover, Kensey teaches the function, format and feature of domain name that includes (prefix)(name).(suffix) (see paragraph 0033) is equivalent to the unifying prefix as disclosed in the applicant's specification. Therefore, it would have been one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify/change a prefix in Kensey to include a domain name with the group consisting of a school name ... and a sport because it would provide an efficient system to provide/register/establish domain name that best suit to user's particular purposes.

16. As to claim 11, Kensey teaches the invention as claimed, including a method of advertising services and/or products on the Internet, comprising:

- (A) establishing a unifying prefix (figure 1, paragraphs 0011-0012, 0017);
- (B) obtaining at least one domain name beginning with www. followed by the unifying prefix (abstract, figure 1, paragraphs 0017-0020); and
- (C) publicizing the unifying prefix (paragraphs 0020-0023).

Kensey does not explicitly teach the unifying prefix is selected from the group consisting of a school name, a school name followed by a graduation year, an association name, a club name, a hobby and a sport. However, Kensey teaches the unifying prefix could be used other suitable prefixes (paragraphs 0032-0033). Since the group consisting of school name, an association name... a sport is just a name to name for a particular school, department, organization in a domain/URL/website. It were conventionally employed to one of ordinary skill in the art can use any particular name to create a domain name by following domain name format/rule. Moreover, Kensey teaches the function, format and feature of domain name that includes (prefix)(name).(suffix) (see paragraph 0033) is equivalent to the unifying prefix as disclosed in the applicant's specification. Therefore, it would have been one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify/change a prefix in Kensey to include a domain name with the group consisting of a school name ... and a sport because it would provide an efficient system to provide/register/establish domain name that best suit to user's particular purposes.

17. As to claim 21, Kensey does not explicitly teach at least one unifying prefix is selected from a group consisting of a school name, a school name followed by a graduation year, an association name, a club name, a hobby and a sport. However, Kensey teaches the unifying prefix could be used other suitable prefixes (paragraphs 0032-0033). Since the group consisting of school name, an association name... a sport is just a name to name for a particular school, department, organization in a domain/URL/website. It were conventionally employed to one of ordinary skill in the art can use any particular name to create a domain name by following domain name format/rule. Moreover, Kensey teaches the function, format and feature of domain name that includes (prefix)(name).(suffix) (see paragraph 0033) is equivalent to the unifying prefix as disclosed in the applicant's specification. Therefore, it would have been one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify/change a prefix in Kensey to include a domain name with the group consisting of a school name ...an a sport because it would provide an efficient system to provide/register/establish domain name that best suit to user's particular purposes.

18. As to claim 22, Kensey does not explicitly teach wherein a group establishing the prefix is a graduating class or an alumni association. However, Kensey teaches the unifying prefix could be used other suitable prefixes (paragraphs 0032-0033). Since a group establishing the prefix is a graduating class or an alumni association is just a name to name for a particular school, department, organization in a domain/URL/website. It were conventionally employed to one of ordinary skill in the art can use any particular name to create a domain name by following domain name format/rule. Moreover, Kensey teaches the function, format and feature of domain name that includes (prefix)(name).(suffix) (see paragraph 0033) is equivalent to the unifying prefix as disclosed in the applicant's specification. Therefore, it would have been one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify/change a prefix in Kensey to include a domain name with a group establishing the prefix is a graduating class or an alumni association because it would provide an efficient system to provide/register/establish domain name that best suit to user's particular purposes.
